

GREECE GIVES IN TO ALL DEMANDS MADE BY ALLIES

They Will Control Communications; Secure Expulsion of German Agents

VENIZELOS' PLEA

Must Join Entente Before Bulgaria Arranges For Separate Peace

(Reuter's Agency War Service)
London, September 3.—M. Venizelos, in a message to The Sunday Times, trusts that the intervention of Rumania will render it impossible for the existing Greek authorities to persist in their neutrality and that Greece, at the earliest possible opportunity, will join the camp of her proved traditional friends.

Reuter's correspondent at Athens telegraphs that, yesterday evening, the British and French Ministers presented a joint Note to the Greek Government, demanding Allied control of the posts and telegraphs, including wireless, on the ground that these are used to convey information to the enemy; also the expulsion of enemy bribery and espionage agents and necessary measures against their Greek accomplices.

It is understood that Greece does not object to the acceptance of these demands.

A British official despatch from Salonica reports: On the Struma front, hostile artillery shelled the bridges at Fitoki and Komarjam. Our aeroplanes bombed Angista station. There is no change on the Dolran front.

Accept Allies' Demands
Athens, September 3.—Greece has accepted the demands made by the Entente in their entirety. Control of the postal and telegraphic communications by the Allies begins today.

Earlier messages from Athens stated: The Entente Ministers visited the Greek Premier, M. Zaimis and afterwards met at the French Legation, to draft a Note to him. The Note, embodying the final demands of the Entente, was to be handed to M. Zaimis yesterday afternoon. A feeling of nervousness prevails.

King Constantine is still suffering from fever.

Venizelos Calls For Action
M. Venizelos has issued a statement, in which he urges immediate action, saying: "Who can doubt that Bulgaria may now seek a separate peace and who does not understand that, if this happens before we join the Allies, it will mean the permanent extinction of Greece?"

Forty-two British and French warships continue to cruise off the Piræus. Three entered the harbor and seized three German ships, while others seized the wireless station at the Greek arsenal.

Several Germans have been arrested, while many are in hiding.

Paris, September 3.—An official despatch from Macedonia reports: On the Struma front, in the region of Dolran, there was an intermittent cannonade. Our artillery set the station at Pardoica, which is northward of Ghevgheli, in a blaze.

The Servians easily repulsed a Bulgarian attack on the Vetrenik sector.

Bulgarians Are Engaged

Fortifying New Positions
(Ostasiatische Lloyd War Service)

Official Bulgarian report.—Bulgarian headquarters, August 28.—The troops on our right wing have fortified the new positions north and west of the Ostrovo Lake, after repulsing the Servians in the Florina plain. The Servians, who attacked repeatedly in the district of Moglena, were repulsed.

The Servians, in consequence of their losses, have been forced to desist from frontal attacks. Our troops advanced and conquered the heights south of Subasko. In the Vardar Valley, feeble artillery fire and patrol engagements occurred.

The troops on our left wing have fortified the new positions east of the Struma to the Aegean coast and from the mouth of Orphan to the mouth of the Mesta, after driving the Franco-British forces from the dis-

Zeppelin Is Downed In Most Formidable Attack on England

13 Airships Make Industrial Areas Their Mark, But Do Small Damage

(Reuter's Agency War Service)
London, September 3.—Official.—An attack was made by more airships than have taken part in a raid up to the present on England. The eastern counties and London were apparently the objective.

The attack on London was beaten off and a raider was felled in flames. Many bombs were dropped in widely separated localities, but no reports of casualties or damage have been received.

A later official message said: The air-raid was executed by thirteen airships and was the most formidable attack yet made on Great Britain. The principal theater of operations was the eastern counties, the objective, apparently, being London and certain industrial centers in the Midlands.

Only three airships succeeded in approaching the outskirts of London. One appeared over north London at 2.15 a.m. Search-lights immediately located her, anti-aircraft guns and aeroplanes heavily engaged her and, after a few minutes, she burst into flame, fell to earth and was destroyed. The wreckage and the half-burnt bodies of the crew were found at Cuffley, near Enfield.

Damage Is Not Heavy

The reports received up to the present indicate that the damage and loss of life are not heavy, considering the number of airships engaged. A great number of bombs were dropped in the eastern and south-eastern counties, but a large proportion fell in the sea, or on lonely country-sides.

The only casualties reported are: Killed, one man and one woman; injured, eleven men and women and two children. The damage done by the raid is almost insignificant.

The latest official inquiries show that there were no casualties in the Metropolitan Police District (an area of 700 square miles), while only twenty-five houses were slightly damaged, two water-mains burst and three horses killed in that area. The damage elsewhere was very slight and none of it military.

Two other Zeppelins which approached the Metropolis were driven off.

Another message says: Several hostile airships attacked the east coast, at 11 o'clock this evening and dropped bombs in a few places. The raid is still in progress.

Airship Falls In Flames

It is understood that the Zeppelin felled in the London district descended in flames, in open country. The crowds assembled in the surrounding districts cheered loudly when the Zeppelin burst into flames.

It is stated unofficially that all the crew of the Zeppelin brought down in the London district were killed. Enormous crowds are thronging to the spot where the air-ship fell and the event has aroused tremendous enthusiasm throughout the country.

The new measures for the reduction and obscuration of light were very effective. The Zeppelins were unable to steer a steady course, as they did in the raid last Spring, but groped about in the darkness, looking for a safe avenue of approach to their objectives.

Our experts hope to be able to reconstruct certain portions of the framework of the wrecked Zeppelin. The large amount of wood employed in the framework is startling and would seem to indicate a shortage of aluminum in Germany.

FIVE DAYS FIERCE FIGHTING ENDS IN AUSTRIAN DEFEAT

Rumanians Advance Amazingly Rapidly in Quadruple Offensive

18 MILES OVER LINE

All Frontier From Orsova To Hatzeger Mountains Is Abandoned

(Reuter's Agency War Service)

London, September 3.—An Austrian communiqué admits that the Austro-Hungarian forces have met with a serious defeat at the hands of the Rumanians, near Orsova, on the Danube, where they withdrew to the west bank of the Cerna, after five days' fierce fighting. A German communiqué shows that Prince Leopold of Bavaria commands the group of armies hitherto commanded by von Hindenburg.

The Budapest correspondent of The Times says that an inspired statement in the newspapers prepares the public for a retreat of the Austro-Hungarian forces to the Orsova-Dorna-Vatra line, which is half the length of the frontier. It admits that the difficulty of defending the frontier and the necessity of economizing forces compels the abandonment of Transylvania.

Dorna-Vatra, in south-west Bukovina, was mentioned in a Russian communiqué on Friday. (Transylvania has an area of 21,000 square miles.)

Amazingly Rapid Advance

Austro-Hungarian despatches received via Switzerland, though reticent and strongly censored, show that the Rumanian offensive was begun at four different points and made the amazingly rapid advance of eighteen miles into Hungary in two days, strengthening its positions as it proceeded. Severe engagements were fought at all the passes.

The Rumanians attacked, heedless of sacrifices and the fury of their assaults and their superiority in numbers compelled the Austrians to withdraw. Subsequently, the Austrians joined up with the Russians, north of the Gorygyo Mountains, where desperate fighting continues among the bare, precipitous mountains.

It is admitted that the rectification of the Austrian lines has compelled the evacuation of all frontier points, villages and towns from Orsova to the Hatzeger Mountains.

Rumanians Control Brasso

Bukharest, August 31.—An official communiqué reports: Our advance continues successfully everywhere. The Rumanian authorities are installed at Brasso.

Our artillery are shelling the railway-station at Orsova. Up to the present, we have captured 1,800 prisoners.

Enemy infantry and cavalry crossed our frontier, near Salvia, but were immediately repulsed.

Austria Says Withdrawal

Was Settled on Long Ago

(Ostasiatische Lloyd War Service)

Official Austro-H. report.—Vienna, August 30.—On the heights north-east of Orsova, our troops met repeated Rumanian attacks. Otherwise, detachments which were advanced towards the frontier were systematically withdrawn, step by step, as planned long ago in case war should break out.

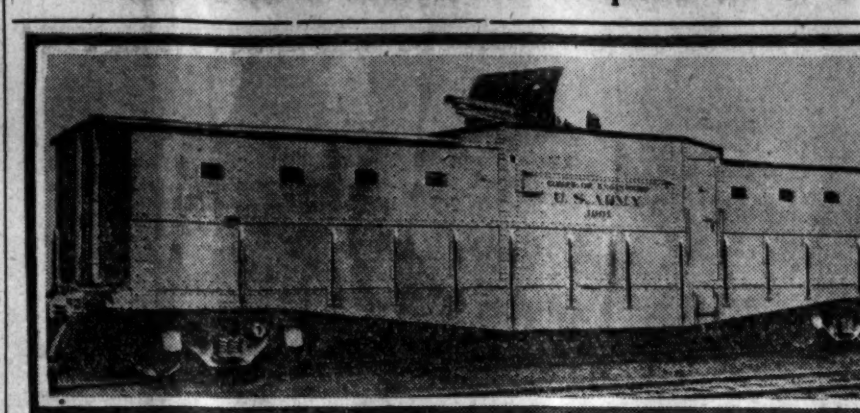

The enemy will boast of occupying Petrosany, Kronstadt and Ledivasahely. Most of the northern Rumanian detachments in the Goegeny mountains are engaged.

In the Galician forest and in the Carpathians, the German troops recovered from the Russians the Kukul Height, which has been much disputed for weeks. Otherwise, only forefield engagements occurred on the Russian frontier.

Our Danube flotilla destroyed transport boats near Turnu Severin and Giurgiu and port magazines and military establishments on the Lower Danube. They captured

First Armored Railroad Car Completed for U. S.

The first of a special design of light armored cars for steam railroad service was delivered to the War Department by a Hammond, Indiana, car building plant August 3.

The car is constructed of heavy steel plates and will carry a high powered gun mounted in a gunwell in the oval roof, and twenty machine guns, whose ports in the sides may also be used by sharpshooters. The car would be especially useful in Shanghai.

LIEUT. ERIC SYMONS IS DEAD, SAYS WAR OFFICE

Rev. C. J. F. Symons Receives Cable; News of Other Shanghai Boys At Front

It is with great regret that we have to record the death of Lieut. Eric Symons, the son of the Rev. C. J. F. Symons, Secretary of the C.M.S. Lieut. Symons left for England some eighteen months ago, and after a strenuous training was sent to the front, somewhere in France, about the end of June. News was received by his parents a few days ago that he was dangerously ill at the front, and yesterday morning a cable from the War Office brought the sad news of his death.

The deceased was well-known in sporting circles in Shanghai and he especially distinguished himself at hockey. He was also a member of the Shanghai Cricket Club. He was only 23 years of age and while here was with Jardine, Matheson. The greatest sympathy will be felt with his parents.

The Rev. Symons' eldest son, Hanley, has just been gazetted a Lieutenant and a cable received last week stated that he had joined his regiment in France. He took his examination early in his training and passed so well that he was only with the Colors some four months when he was sent to France with his company.

More definite information is available concerning the wound received by Lieut. C. S. Bignell, formerly of Messrs. Collins and Co. He was wounded by a sniper, the bullet passing through the thigh, without touching the bone. He is in a private hospital in London.

Sergeant A. J. Castle, formerly of the Health Department, has been awarded the Military Medal.

Word has reached Shanghai that Lieut. J. O. Barnes, well known here, was seriously injured during the July offensive. He was attached to the Trench Motor Battery and was under shell-fire for 62 hours, during which his right kneecap and right calf were shot away. It was necessary to amputate the leg above the knee. He is now in the Third General Hospital, Wandsworth Common, London, S. W.

Senate Confirms Ministers; Mr. Tong Shao-yi Reported Leaving for Capital Today

(Reuter's Pacific Service to The China Press)

Peking, September 4.—The Senate this afternoon confirmed the Cabinet. Chinese reports say that Tong Shao-yi will leave Shanghai for Peking on the 5th.

It is announced that there will be a joint session of the Senate and House of Representatives for the discussion of the draft of the permanent constitution. It begins on Tuesday and will be held in the large hall of the House of Representatives. The session will continue till the whole law has been passed.

According to returns made by the Provincial Financial Commissioners, the annual revenue of the different provinces is as follows:

In each first-class province, such as Fengtien, Shantung, Kiangsu, Chekiang, Kwangtung and Szechuen, the revenue exceeds $10,000,000.

In second-class provinces, such as Chihli, Honan, Shansi, Kiangsi, Hunan, etc., it exceeds $5,000,000.

In third-class provinces, the revenue is below $5,000,000.

The revenue of Kwangtung is the highest, amounting to some fifteen million dollars, while Kiangsu is second with twelve to thirteen millions.

Settlement in Shantung

The conference at Tsinanfu between the Governor of Shantung, the delegate of the Central Government, the revolutionary leaders and a number of local merchants and other prominent persons has reached an agreement which, it is hoped, will lead to a permanent settlement in Shantung, if money can be obtained to disband the revolutionary troops.

Canton, September 2.—Admiral Sah Chen-ping has requested Tsen Chun-hsuan to place the revolutionary fleet under his (Sah's) command.

Reports from the districts show that the refugees are suffering from outrages by the troops and point to the difficulties of relief being great. Sambeung, in Heungshan, is being attacked by the surrounding villages and women and children have been killed.

Bandits Are Busy

Chengtu, August 31.—The robber chief Wu Kien-chen is holding Mien-chuhsien, controlling the district and defying the authorities. Yesterday, owing to lack of pay, soldiers looted Taisienlu.

The financial situation of the government is still tight, causing fears regarding the future peace of the province.

Ichang, September 2.—An authentic report states that Wuhsan has been taken by a body of bandits 5,000 strong. The magistrate fled here.

The bandits then proceeded to Kweifu, where the Superintendent of Customs fled to Wansien. The whereabouts of the magistrate are unknown.

Peking, September 4.—Fan Yuan-lien, Minister of Education, will attend the Autumn sacrifice in the Temple of Confucius, as representative of President Li Yuan-hung.

The discussions about a big foreign loan will begin on Wednesday. Chen Chin-tao, Minister of Finance, will carry on the negotiations on behalf of the Chinese Government while Mr. Odagiri, manager of the Yokohama Specie Bank, will act on behalf of the foreign bankers.

According to a Mukden despatch, the Government troops have repulsed the Mongolian insurgents towards Hallar. The Shuntien Jih-pao reports that Wu Chun-sheng, Occupation Commissioner of Tsunan and Liaoyang, has been killed in an encounter with Mongolians.

Chang Hsun Resigns

Peking, Sept. 4.—General Chang Hsun has resigned his position as the Military Governor of Anhui, as he does not desire to allow Feng Kuo-chang to have military authority over him. He is quite determined to remain Inspector-General of the Yangtze Region, stationing armies at Hsuehchow with his own troops.

Kwan Yueh-chi Dead

The Tsunhua Sinpao reports: Kwan Yueh-chi, who, with Wang Wen-cheng, attacked the office of the Changchun of Chekiang this Spring, as a result of which Chekiang declared independence, died on the morning of September 3 at Dr. Sasaki's Hospital (the former Hospital of the S.-N. Railway). Dr. Sun Yat-sen, General Hwang Hsing, Tong Shao-yi, Pai Wen-yu and Hu Han-ming have jointly wired about his death to the Military Governor of Chekiang, asking him to send a deputy to Shanghai to attend and prepare for the funeral, etc.

Constitution Up This Week

Peking, September 1.—It is quite probable that joint sessions will be held by the two Houses of Parliament for the final passage of the permanent constitution. According to the decision of the House of Representatives early last week in compliance with the request of the Senate, the discussion of the Temple of Heaven draft should begin next Wednesday. It is generally believed that the question will be taken in hand as soon as the Cabinet question is settled. If the Cabinet can be approved today by the House of Representatives, there is little doubt that the passage in the Senate on Wednesday will be easy.—Peking Gazette.

ALLIES SUCCESSFUL IN ANOTHER GREAT SWEEP IN FRANCE

Whole of Guillemont And Part of Ginchy Occupied by British

MANY PRISONERS

French Report Capture Of Clery Forest, Besides Several Villages

FIERCEST ASSAULT

German Counter on Delville

Wood Most Desperate Experienced Yet

(Reuter's Agency War Service)

London, September 4.—General Sir Douglas Haig reported yesterday evening: Co-operating with the French on our immediate right, we attacked the enemy today at several points and captured part of Ginchy and the whole of Guillemont. Our front now runs 500 yards east of Guillemont from Ginchy to near Falfemont Farm.

We also gained ground on the east side of Mouquet Farm. We captured several hundred prisoners. The French made substantial progress between our right and the Somme. Fighting continues.

Our air-craft did very useful work, co-operating with our artillery and infantry. The enemy's aeroplanes, which desperately attempted to interfere, were successfully engaged in many aerial fights and driven off, losing three machines destroyed and at least four damaged. We lost three.

Fiercest Attack Yet

Reuter's special correspondent at British headquarters states that the German counter-attack, on Thursday night, in the neighborhood of Delville Wood, was the fiercest the enemy have yet delivered. Picked troops were employed and the desperate character of the assaults suggests that the Germans attacked the utmost importance to success at this spot.

The onrush of their dense masses was heralded by an intense barrage. The trenches in which a footing was ultimately effected by the enemy were so battered that they afforded no shelter.

The attack was probably meant to signalize Marshal von Hindenburg's promotion to be Chief of the General Staff, but, if the casualties inflicted are published in Germany, they will assuredly produce blank dismay.

Drive Germans Out

General Sir Douglas Haig reported on Saturday afternoon: As the result of minor operations, last night, we drove the enemy out from a portion of the small area, intersected by trenches north-west of Delville which they re-occupied on the 31st. There were no infantry actions elsewhere.

The enemy's artillery have been more active during the last twelve hours and have used numerous gas-shells.

General Haig reported in the evening: There was increased reciprocal artillery activity south of the Ancre and on other parts of the front. The only infantry action between the Ancre and the Somme consisted of bombing encounters.

Mines were exploded by both sides in the Auchy district.

British Gain Ground

General Haig reported yesterday afternoon: Fighting is in progress at Mouquet Farm and south of Thiepval. We gained ground. Fighting is also proceeding on the banks of the Ancre and on our right, about Falfemont Farm; therefore, on a front of several miles, with Thiepval, roughly, in the center.

Paris, September 3.—The official communiqué issued yesterday afternoon reported: There was considerable activity at Maurepas and southward of the Somme. The Germans violently and repeatedly attacked the trenches we captured on the 31st, south of Estrees and succeeded in re-occupying some portion of them.

The enemy violently bombarded Thiaumont Wood during the night and attempted an attack at Fleury, which was crushed by our fire. A Russian patrol routed a party of the enemy at Aubervie, after a severe fight.

The communiqué in the evening stated: There is nothing to report.

except artillery duels north and south of the Somme.

Sweeping Allied Attack

The communique this evening reported a sweeping Anglo-French attack north of the Somme, which carried the German positions on a front of six kilometers between Maurepas and the river. The allied troops rushed over the enemy, capturing villages and the Forest of Clercy and also important trenches.

A German counter-attack was smashed up, very heavy losses being inflicted on the enemy.

The enemy, although in considerable strength, were unable to withstand the rush of the Allies, who attained all their objectives. North of the forest we captured all the German trenches along the forest and Combes road, as far as the outskirts of Combes.

2,000 Prisoners

We likewise carried all the enemy's positions between the forest and Clercy and crossed the road between the two places at numerous points. A German counter-attack, made with huge forces and directed against our positions south of the forest, was caught by our fire and thrown back in disorder, numerous dead being left on the field. 2,000 prisoners have been counted up to the present and our booty includes twelve guns and fifty machine-guns.

The Germans violently attacked our positions at Vaux-Chapelle. They were repulsed repeatedly, but finally gained a footing in a salient, where furious fighting continues.

The French attacked the Germans east and north-west of Fleury, capturing several trenches and part of the crest running from Fleury to Thiaumont.

Foe Very Active, But Not Successful, Says Berlin

(Ostasiatische Lloyd War Service) Official German report.—Headquarters, August 31.—Western theater.—At the front on both sides of Armentières the enemy showed much activity. Their reconnoitering parties, advancing after firing raids, were repulsed.

Near Rodincourt and north of Arras, the German patrols made numbers of prisoners in a British trench. On both sides of the Somme, engagements are very violent. Yesterday morning, an advanced trench south of Martinpuich was lost.

In the Meuse sector, only minor hand-grenade engagements occurred near Fleury.

Five Days Fighting; Austrians Defeated

On the Lower Vojussa the patrol activity has increased.

August 31.—Near the heights east of Herkulesbad, the Rumanian attacks have been repulsed. The Austro-Hungarian troops fighting in the Csik mountains have taken new positions on the heights west of Csikseredra. Elsewhere, no change at the Hungarian front.

On the Russian front, the enemy's artillery increased its activity in numerous places.

Official Bulgarian report.—August 30.—On the Danube, we sank two steamers by artillery fire. The hostile navy was in action without success south of Mesta.

An air-squadron attacked the bridge of the Baren Lake and the railway station. No damage was done and no human lives lost.

Front of 600 Kilometers

Berlin, August 31.—The Austrian and Hungarian newspapers emphasize the fact the new war theater is 600 kilometers long, on account of the bent frontier, while the straight line between both ends of Dornavatra and Orsova is but 300 kilometers long. The newspapers say that the defensive lines, which are situated on important strategic and tactical points, do not coincide everywhere with the frontier.

It is, therefore, planned to withdraw the troops into strong and prepared positions, where the outflanking and enclosure movements of the enemy are noticed and where our positions are favored by the terrain. This method has stood the test in the Italian war theater.

The Turkish council of ministers decided on the 29th to declare war against Rumania.

The Rumanian Consul-General has not yet left Budapest. He declared that he has not as yet received any instructions from his minister at Vienna, apparently because the minister has until now been unable to find a representative willing to take charge of the Rumanian interest.

Archduke Friedrich has issued the following army order: "Soldiers, war comrades! You were told that a new enemy has arisen in the ranks of our adversaries' columns, i.e., the kingdom of Rumania. Your upright sense of soldiers will find adequate contempt for this dilatory assault. During the last years, we have overcome many a grave hour; we shall also fight for this new honor and loyalty to our oath sworn to the flags and to our Commander-in-Chief. God be with you!"

BARJONA RESIGNED

With reference to the item in Sunday's China Press concerning the Portuguese Consul here, a slight misunderstanding has arisen through a cable which arrived in French. It stated: "Barjona demissionne." This was translated as "Barjona dismissed" and was so given out. Mr. Barjona's personal friends insisted that there was an error, which was substantiated on reference to the original cable, as "demissionne" means "resigned."

Capt. W. J. Ralphs

With reference to the death of Captain W. J. Ralphs, Royal Field Artillery, the following obituary notice appeared in The Times of July 22.

"Captain Walter Joel Ralphs, R. F. A., killed on July 15, came home on the outbreak of hostilities, from the Far East, where he had been for several years on the staff of the Chartered Bank, notably in Shanghai. A fine athlete and all-round sportsman, he became famous in the East, when a lieutenant in the Light Horse, as a rider and polo player and commanded a squadron of Light Horse in the second Chinese revolution.

"Captain Ralphs had seen a year's active service in France as forward observing officer to a battery. He was gazetted second lieutenant to the Royal Field Artillery on December 30, 1914, promoted lieutenant on March 25, 1915 and, a few days before being killed, was promoted captain, for service in the field.

"He was the younger son of Mr. and Mrs. Joel Ralphs, of Blenheim Place, Dufkinfield."

Mr. H. L. Zia

(Special Correspondence to The China Press) Hangchow, September 2.—Mr. H. L. Zia, teacher, editor, translator and author, passed away at his Hangchow home yesterday afternoon, another shining victim of the Great White Plague cut off in the prime of life. A host of friends, Chinese and foreigners, in all parts of China and in other lands, will hear this news with genuine grief.

Mr. Zia was one of the quietest and one of the most potent forces in the transforming period through which China is now passing. As a youth of twelve he felt a sense of message and the remaining thirty-two years of his life were deliberately consecrated to the task of articulating and voicing that message in a way that would reach the ear and the conscience of his people.

After graduating from Burlington Institute, now Soochow University, Mr. Zia joined the faculty of the Anglo-Chinese College, Shanghai—at that time a well known and influential center of modern learning. His personal influence on individual students was profound and many of them, since come to places of large responsibility in the affairs of China, have never ceased to turn to him in hours of need as their counsellor and friend. His personal correspondence with these students and with later friends was one of the largest items in the daily schedule of this philosopher-friend.

An able teacher and an eloquent and convincing speaker, Mr. Zia's most notable work was in the realm of literature. His writing were prolific and covered a wide range of educational and religious subjects. He began writing at a time when the colloquial in print was in disrepute (as it still is probably) and when the prevailing written style, or Wenli, was unintelligible save to the initiated few. His ambition was to develop a style of "Easy Wenli."

which would be intelligible to the many and in favor with the literary class. His success in realizing this object gave him a large and influential audience in China.

Mr. Zia's first literary work was done as a member of the editorial staff of the Commercial Press with which he was identified in the days of its beginnings. In this connection he brought forth a number of text books, and other educational works. His most fruitful work has been in connection with the National Committee of the Young Men's Christian Associations of China which he joined twelve years ago and over the publication department of which he had presided as editor in chief for a number of years. His labors here as actual or supervising editor of three magazines, translator of numerous books on Bible Study and other subjects, and author of many more, covering a wide range of subjects, were phenomenal.

Eight years ago Mr. Zia fell prey to an aggravated case of tuberculosis which he tried in vain to overcome, seeking relief at various times in the high altitudes of Colorado, in the mountains of Kuling, and elsewhere. For the past six years he had done his work in Hangchow near the shores of West Lake.

As teacher he helped to train many of China's present leaders. As writer he contributed largely to the ideals of the thinking classes of the country—especially among the present generation of young men, and more particularly among students. No man has been more influential in shaping the national movement known as the Young Men's Christian Associations of China during its formative years. Few men, Chinese or foreign, have appreciated so well the problems and the possibilities of the Christian Church of China, and he made fundamental and far reaching contributions to the progress of the Church by the productions of his pen and by his efforts in connection with influential bodies such as the China Continuation Committee. Pre-eminently, he was a Christian who exemplified the life and teachings of his Master and manifested in all his work and in all his relations that choice spirit called Christian.

GROUP FIVE REVIVED IN JAPANESE DEMANDS

Hayashi Presents Bill in Connection With Conflict At Chengchiang

CHINA ASKS FOR TIME

Unable to Discuss Quest on Until Report Received from Special Commissioner

(Reuter's Pacific Service to The China Press)

Peking, September 4.—Baron Hayashi, on Saturday, presented to the Walchiaopu the demands made by his Government in connection with the Chengchiang affair. Subsequently, he called on Premier Tuan Chi-jui and also presented him with a copy of the demands.

The details have not been disclosed, but, in the main, the demands are for the punishment or reprimand of those responsible for the incident and measures to prevent its recurrence. This is rather vague, but the Japanese assert that their demands are moderate and deny the Chinese reports that Japan has demanded joint police administration, thus, practically, reviving Article III, Group V, of the demands presented last year. They also deny that they have demanded the dismissal of the Commander of the 28th Division and of the Governor at Mukden, General Chang Tso-ling.

On the other hand, the Chinese do not consider the demands moderate, though, at present, they are not in a position to disclose their nature. The negotiations will probably commence in Peking as soon as Wong Hung-lien, the Walchiaopu delegate who was sent to investigate the incident, returns to Peking. The Chinese report of the affair is not yet available.

Peking Waits Report

(Ostasiatische Lloyd)

Peking, September 3.—Baron Hayashi, Japanese Minister to Peking, with the First and Third Secretaries of Legation, on the 3rd inst., at nine a.m., called upon the Walchiaopu in connection with the Chengchiang affair. On the afternoon of the same day, he paid a visit to Premier Tuan Chi-jui for the same purpose.

The Japanese Government is demanding the punishment of the Chinese officers and soldiers responsible for the incident and asks the Chinese Government to warn all their troops in Manchuria, in order to

The enemy, after their defeats and the failure of their offensive, confined themselves to ineffective artillery fire on the whole front. Only north of the Ostrovo Lake and in the Matitsa Valley were attempts made to re-conquer the lost positions by unsuccessful counter-attacks and to improve the impossible situation. All attempts were repulsed.

for Infants and Children.

Physicians Prescribe Castoria.

CASTORIA has met with pronounced favor on the part of physicians, pharmaceutical societies and medical authorities. It is used by physicians with results most gratifying. The extended use of Castoria is unquestionably the result of three facts: 1st, The indisputable evidence that it is harmless; 2nd, That it not only allays stomach pains and quiets the nerves, but assimilates the food; 3rd, It is an agreeable and perfect substitute for castor oil. It is absolutely safe. It does not contain any opium, morphine, or other narcotic and does not stupefy. It is unlike Soothing Syrup, Bateman's Drops, Godfrey's Cordial, etc. This is a good deal for a medical journal to say. Our duty, however, is to expose danger and record the means of advancing health. The day for poisoning innocent children through greed or ignorance ought to end. To our knowledge, Castoria is a remedy which produces composure and health, by regulating the system—not by stupefying it—and our readers are entitled to the information.—Hall's Journal of Health.

"Your Castoria stands first in its class. In my thirty years of practice I can say I never have found anything that so filled the place." WILLIAM BELMONT, M. D., Cleveland, Ohio.

"I have used your Castoria and found it an excellent remedy in my household and private practice for many years. The formula is excellent." H. J. TAPP, M. D., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"I have used your Castoria in the case of my own baby and find it pleasant to take, and have obtained excellent results from its use." S. A. BUCHANAN, M. D., Philadelphia, Pa.

"I find your Castoria to be a standard family remedy. It is the best thing for infants and children I have ever known and I recommend it." R. E. ECKLUND, M. D., Omaha, Neb.

"I take pleasure in recommending your Castoria, having recommended its use in many instances, and consider it the best laxative that could be used, especially for children." NATHANIEL K. KING, M. D., St. Louis, Mo.

"Having during the past six years prescribed your Castoria for infantile stomach disorders, I most heartily commend its use. The formula contains nothing deleterious to the most delicate of children." J. B. ELLIOTT, M. D., New York City.

Allege Barbarous Treatment Of Prisoners by Russians

(Ostasiatische Lloyd War Service)

The Deutscher Ueberseedienst states: Berlin, August 31.—The German Government has addressed a vigorous protest to the Russian government against the barbarous treatment of war prisoners. The immediate cessation of these barbarities was asked and reprisals were announced in case no satisfactory answer was forthcoming by a fixed date. A considerable amount of money was transmitted to the powers protecting the German interests in Petrograd, in order to alleviate the horrible sufferings.

The Norddeutsche Allgemeine Zeitung, under the heading: "Hell in Russia," gives sensational details about the tortures suffered by the prisoners of war in the hands of the Russian authorities. They were forced to work on roads and railroads, day and night, from half past four in the morning until eight p.m., even on Sundays, without receiving food, clothes or shoes.

They were barefooted and dressed in rags, even during the rigorous winter, when the temperature sinks frequently down to 50 degrees below zero. Of the 15,000 prisoners sent there, thousands have already died on account of bad and insufficient food and the unhealthy climate. The survivors are practically all sick and look dead.

They are rheumatic, consumptive and scurvy-stricken; there is no medical assistance, as only at every hundred kilometers can a physician be found. Death occurs sometimes after months.

The prisoners are driven to work with whips. They do not receive the promised wages. Civilian overseers are ordered to use whips as freely as possible.

In Kanevsk, sick prisoners were driven almost naked to work until their arms and legs were frost-bitten and dark colored. In the Ysher works, the overseers Lavitsch and Eaduskin and Lieutenants Triasovs, Pratonovich and Borechkov tortured the prisoners to such a degree that the Russian soldiers refused obedience.

There rages heavy typhoid fever in every place. The prisoners lie on wooden beds, without blankets and with broken limbs. The number of insanity cases is large. 270 prisoners are in a room which is fit for 50 only. The punishment is so barbarous that Russian soldiers asked to be sent to the front in order not to be compelled any longer to serve as torturers.

1,250 prisoners were driven with whips into over-crowded rooms where there is bedding hardly for a hundred men. Then the windows and doors were nailed with boards. They were left without food or water in this atrocious captivity 26 hours. When the room was opened, many fainted and the rest were mercilessly whipped. Others were locked up for several days in deep and moist pits and hit in the face with iron bars by the overseer Porshkov.

The starving prisoners eat the meat of dead goats and dead dogs. The sick prisoners were transported in cattle cars to the hospitals, where the attendance was so poor that, according to the report of the physicians, the death rate was within a short time 90 per cent. Gravely sick prisoners were forced with whips and gun-buttas as long as they were able to move.

In the Orlov district, a former clergyman, named Milyutin, has been distinguished by his superiors for brutalizing the prisoners even worse than others do. In Jaransk, captured officers have been whipped and beaten with sticks by order of a captain.

In Kurgan, 3,000 prisoners died of typhoid fever within two months. In Kolomna, Police Captain Kadistov declared in public that the prisoners ought to be killed like dogs.

The commander of the military district of Moscow, Sandetzky, prohibited by public order the treatment of prisoners, especially the officers, humanely. In consequence, the prisoners are slowly tortured to death.

Captured members of the Russian navy, officers and men, have been brought into reprisal camps because, for more than a year, the German naval officers and sailors in Siberia have been treated not as members of the navy but as common criminals. Members of the Russian navy will, when captured, be treated exactly alike, until the Russian Government decides that the Germans are soldiers who did their duty for their country.

The Russian measure is said to have been caused by the friendly advice of Britain, who declared that these Germans are not regular sailors but pirates. All diplomatic negotiations have been without result.

The Russian General Staff now even pretends that the proved facts which caused the German counter measures are untrue.

Economic Situation Highly Satisfactory Says Dr. Helfferich

Couldn't Starve Germany On Poor Harvest; This Year Crops Are Good

(Ostasiatische Lloyd War Service)

New York, September 1.—Discussing the economic conditions in Germany, Dr. Helfferich, Secretary of the Interior, in an interview cabled by the Berlin correspondent of the Associated Press, said that the outlook regarding the food supply and the general economic situation are highly satisfactory at present and there are no indications that these considerations will assume at any time the aspect of influencing the military plans and the operations of the Empire. The prospects of the new war loan are very favorable. Britain made a mistake when she made the consideration that Germany depended so much on imports that Britain thought she could annihilate Germany by condemning to starvation the entire German nation and by enforcing the measure calculated to effect this with ruthless disregard of international laws and the protests of small nations. Germany has given ample proof that Britain's calculations are absolutely wrong.

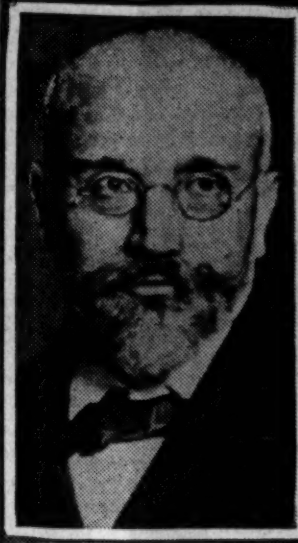

Dr. Helfferich said that this harvest was much better than in 1915, so that Britain, having failed to starve Germany in a year with immeasurably poorer crops, might as well realize that the hunger war has proved futile. The increase in breadstuffs amounted to several million tons.

BRITISH CASUALTIES

(Ostasiatische Lloyd War Service)

New York, September 1.—According to an official London despatch, the British casualties during August totalled 4,711 officers and 123,234 men.

Ex-Premier Venizelos Flouts King

EX-PRIMEIER

KING CONSTANTINE

Former Premier Venizelos openly challenges King Constantine's expressed belief that Germany cannot be defeated, Venizelos quotes an interview given by the king to a newspaper representative last January, in which the monarch declared that the war would result in a draw.

"Who is now so blinded by prejudice," asks the statesman, "that he still believes in German victory? Who today, after the re-organization of the Russian army and the organization of Kitchener's army, by which England is raised to the rank of a great military power, still imagines that the war can be ended by a peace in which there will be neither victor nor vanquished?"

In the interview referred to by former Premier Venizelos, King Constantine said:

"If economic exhaustion does not force Germany to sue for peace, I believe it will be very difficult, if not impossible, to conquer her in a military way."

Asked as to what he believed would be the outcome of the war, the king replied: "A draw; don't you?"

Fate of German Girl Compared with That Of Miss Edith Cavell

(Ostasiatische Lloyd War Service)

The Deutscher Ueberseedienst states: Berlin, August 31.—The neutral Zuercher Post writes about the execution of a young German woman at Marseilles: "From Marseilles comes the news that Felicie Pfadt, a young German woman, who was sentenced to death for transmitting news to her country, has really been executed. Everybody felt sure that the unfortunate girl would be pardoned, because her action had been caused by patriotic feelings and was done by a young human being to whom at least the supreme and last punishment ought not to be meted out."

"Above all, everybody felt sure that, after the indignation fomented by the Entente on account of the case of Miss Edith Cavell, France would feel obliged to give a proof of her greater humaneness. This was a mistake and everybody has now been reminded with horror that all the great words about their own humane character and the indignation artificially fomented against the adversary were nothing but hollow words, used in order to influence neutrals.

"For it was either an absolute military necessity to execute Felicie Pfadt—but then it was much more necessary to execute Miss Cavell—or it was cruel and barbarous—but then the execution of the young girl at Marseilles is still more cruel and barbarous than was that of Miss Cavell. It ought not to be forgotten that the case of the latter showed aggravating circumstances which the case of Miss Pfadt completely lacks.

"In the first place, the difference in the age is entirely to the advantage of the young girl of Marseilles; in the second place, it cannot be said that she covered her actions with the cloak of a nurse of the Red Cross. All this may be left undiscussed, but it is a fact which even the staunchest supporters of the Entente cannot wipe out that France has executed a young girl.

"We do not use the term of 'assassinated,' as was uninterruptedly used in Miss Cavell's case. It is a fact that France brutally violated the laws of humanity after Miss Cavell had been celebrated as a new Jeanne d'Arc.

"We do not believe that Germany will now arrange similar advertising services in the cathedrals. Germany is not accustomed to use unfortunate victims of war for such propaganda purposes, but everybody is entitled to expect the sensitive neutrals who raised a passionate protest against Miss Cavell's execution will also raise their protesting voices now there is much better and ampler reason for it."

FRENCH TROOPS ACCUSED OF WILFUL DESTRUCTION

Germans Claim to Find Order Drawing Attention To Lack Of Discipline

(Ostasiatische Lloyd War Service)

The Deutscher Ueberseedienst states: Berlin, August 30.—The Vossische Zeitung publishes a secret order, dated September 16, 1916 (?), signed by Mayral St. Bourgon, Colonel in command of the 165th French infantry regiment. Mayral states that the French troops in several cases literally devastated their quarters, which was caused by the lack of discipline and the carelessness of the officers who quartered the soldiers in houses with serviceable furniture.

Mayral orders that in all such cases the furniture must first be removed before the French troops can be quartered in better houses. He adds: "When the regiments Nos. 164 and 165 operated last October in the Woivre district, the castle of Auxois was more or less devastated and then incriminated. Much has been attributed to the Germans. The inquiry, however, proved that all must be charged to the French and probably to parts to the above-quoted regiments. The telegram of the Under Secretary of State which has caused this order refers to the case of one castle where the inlaid floor and panel work must be replaced at public expense."

The Tsar of Russia has ordered the introduction of the Russian language into Finnish schools, on the same plan as in the Russian schools.

The newspapers publish an essay by the French naval expert, George Branchon, which appeared in the Revue des Deux Mondes on October 15, 1912. Branchon discussed the situation created by the modern cruisers and submarines in the case of war between Germany and Britain. He suggested that the whole North Sea ought to be infested immediately with mines.

He considered neutral objection against this measure possible, but thought it irrelevant and, although it would be founded on the Hague Convention, he added that mines are insufficient and that therefore a submarine offensive would be unavoidable and necessary. The submarine enables the smallest sea power to rule the oceans.

"It is possible that oceans closed for peaceful transport will bow to the will of only one government, which would endanger the welfare of the great modern nations. It would even make life impossible for some of them.

"In this case, it is a forcible necessity for the menaced country to enforce upon its adversary naval impotence by the only possible means, such as blockade of the hostile ports by submarines and mines."

The papers say that Branchon clearly pointed out the completeness of the blockade of Britain by the German submarines. Branchon also discussed the dangers run by submarines when they emerge and when exposed, also the danger to peaceful merchantmen should they suddenly become enemies.

Submarines would be endangered by even the slightest damage. Thus Branchon also predicted the acts of warfare upon merchantmen when commenting on the necessity of submarines and when justifying the complete blockade by submarines.

The papers insist that the arguments given by the French specialist before the war are the best comment on the present Anglo-French accusations addressed to neutrals.

The Dutch steamers Boerce, from Amsterdam to Batavia, Rindjani, from Rotterdam to Batavia, Poeldijk, from Rotterdam to New York, Nordam, from New York and Timor, from Batavia to Amsterdam, were forced to leave their mails in Britain.

JAPAN IS THE HORSE, ENGLAND THE RIDER

Both of Japan's Alliances Unsatisfactory, Says Kokumin—Doubts U. S. Intentions

'OUR LONELY EMPIRE'

Mr. Tokutomi Is Filled With Gloom At Sight of Isolated Nation

Tokio, August 29.—Doubt of the security of either of Japan's alliances, uncertainty as to the friendly intentions of the United States and the pessimistic feeling that if Japan is not actually isolated she is getting lonely are the main heads of Mr. Tokutomi's article on Japan's international position in yesterday's Kokumin. The Anglo-Japanese Alliance is described as a compact between a horseman and a horse, England being the rider. A translation follows:

"It is extremely dangerous to predict the rise and fall of the Powers of the world while the great war is still going on. It is too audacious to attempt it, too irresponsible to do so. But in discussing the future of Japan we must make an observation on that subject, because the Japanese Empire is one of the world nations and her rise and fall depend upon her relations, influence and interests with other nations to not a little extent. "We shall avoid predicting the issues of the present war. But judging from the present situation, the first class Powers of the world are, beside the neutral United States, England, Germany and Russia, Austria, France, and Italy are second class Powers or even lower. Where does Japan come in?

"We shall discuss the relations of Japan with the four great Powers. England is the inseparable ally of Japan, but, honestly speaking, the Anglo-Japanese relation is by no means an ideal one. The Britishers may have their complaints. We cannot say we have none. The Anglo-Japanese Alliance is, to quote Talleyrand, an alliance between a horse and a horseman; in other words, England is the horseman and Japan the horse. That is the honest Japanese view of the alliance.

"That Japan during the war is undertaking the task of maintaining peace and order east of Suez on behalf of England, and is performing the duties of a watchman to protect the communications between England and her colonies, and the Englishmen alone are getting the benefit is the true confession at the bottom of the Japanese heart. England hinders Japan's activity in China. Against the principle of the alliance, she considers Japan as if the latter were an enemy. These are the complaints of a not small portion of our countrymen. Some of these complaints may be reasonable or unreasonable, but we do not mean to comment on the reasonableness or unreasonableness of them here. We only record the fact; that is enough for the present. "We are glad that our relations with Russia have improved considerably within the past half year. Is this improved relationship based upon solid ground, or is it only a temporary make-shift? Have we ground to believe that Russia is our permanent friend? When we think of that we cannot but feel very uneasy. We do not mean that Russia cannot be relied upon. We only fear that the foundation of the friendship has not yet been made firm. "So long as we are fighting against Germany, Germany is our enemy. Whether we shall consider Germany as our permanent enemy or not, we must be prepared to meet Germany trying to take a revenge for our occupying Tsingtau. We do not know how much Germany hates Japan. But we must prepare to see Germany showing her hatred to the end.

"The last country to be discussed is the United States. At present there is no abnormal condition in the relationship between Japan and America. Peace missions are being freely exchanged. The American envoys of peace tell us that not only is there no possibility of war between the two nations, but it is a crime to dream about it. But while thus preaching, America is extending her navy with Japan as her hypothetical enemy, a fact which cannot be denied. Shall we believe words or shall we believe facts, which? Or shall we consider the two as able to stand side by side? At any rate, shall we not study the Japanese-American relationship with our eyes wide open?

"Viewed in the light as discussed so far, can we say that the position of the Japanese Empire in the world is a firm one based on a great rock? Or shall we say that it is as unsteady as an egg? The readers may be able to judge without waiting for our suggestion. The Anglo-Japanese Alliance is half dead. The Russo-Japanese relation is still in an unsteady condition. Japan and Germany are enemies to each other. Japan and America are friendly neighbors. But we can never be at ease with our neighbor. We may not say that Japan is in an isolated position, but we can say that she resembles an isolated nation. Under the circumstances can we 'beat our belly,' talk big, act haughtily or brag or boast, as a Great Empire of the world?"

YEN FOR RUSSIA

Tokio, September 4.—With regard to the issue of the second Russian treasury bonds in Japan to the amount of ¥70,000,000, a provisional agreement has been signed with the syndicate of banks in Tokio and Osaka and the bankers had conferences on September 2 and discussed about the details, as the result of which the final contract will be signed. It is expected that all the arrangements will be closed on September 5th and the total sum will be paid in during this month.

It is announced that the issue will be placed on the market on the 11th and the subscribers should pay in by September 25th.

Smiles from the Mixed Court

Would Hear Parrot Sing

A nature faker confided to Lien Sing-yu that the parrot was a singing bird as well as a talking bird. But to hear the bird render the latest Chinese melodies required tender care on the part of the owner, so the parrot could be assured a sympathetic and an appreciative audience.

So Lien for several days watched a parrot in his cage at 1485 Woosung Road and waited for some evidence of the kindly treatment the bird was supposed to receive to induce him to burst into song.

But his patience became exhausted. He climbed the wall on Sunday and walked off to his own home with the bird and the cruel hand of the law stopped him and put an end to the prospective concert. Lien told his story in the Mixed Court yesterday.

He said that he had no idea of stealing the bird, but that the temptation of hearing him sing had proven too much for him. He was sentenced to three months imprisonment to reflect on the revelations made by the nature faker and the parrot was returned to its owner.

DO WOMEN EAT TOO MUCH?

A prominent London newspaper asserts that women of the educated classes are diminishing their health and beauty by the habitual indulgence in too rich food.

Speaking from a local point of view, there is but little danger of women in this country injuring themselves by undue attention to the pleasures of the table; on the contrary, many of them err in the opposite direction, their lack of good appetite being primarily due to imperfect health.

Most women here and in other parts of the Far East, for instance, are Anemic, and one of the first symptoms of this health and beauty destroying malady is loss of appetite. Again, many women suffer from ailments peculiar to their sex, all of which are accompanied by disordered digestion and a disinclination to take sufficient nourishing food.

Yet just what these women want is nourishment, something to give them blood—rich red blood which will build up the enfeebled body, give fresh tone to the nerves, restore healthy appetite, refreshing sleep. And the remedy is close at hand in the form of the most famous woman's medicine in the world, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These Pills have rescued tens of thousands of women from constant weakness and suffering by gilling their veins with the rich red blood of health, and by their direct and powerful action on the nervous system through the blood. Obtainable from dealers everywhere, and from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 96 Szechuen Road, Shanghai. 1 bottle for $1.50 (6 bottles $8), post free.

of such a place, but he had no play-house of his own. That mattered not to him, however, for on Saturday he placed an order with a printer for tickets of admission to one of the picture shows. He selected the Towa Cinema as the place where he would send his patrons.

He stationed himself a short distance away from the place on Sunday evening and before he was caught he had disposed of thirty tickets at thirty cents each. He was arrested and was forced to purchase bona fide tickets at the box office for his customers.

When he was arraigned in the Mixed Court yesterday he admitted having had the tickets printed. His trial was postponed for one week until the purchasers of his tickets can be summoned to appear as witnesses against him.

BROOKLYN'S WONDERFUL TEAM SUFFERS DEFEAT

Shanghai Allies Neatly Trim Sailors In Fast Game Of Ball

Today's Game
Blue Sox v. Red Sox

Did you all notice that the Brooklyn flag is at half-mast? No? Well, the only reason that it isn't is that it is against government regulations to half-mast the flag over a lost ball game. At any rate the flag is in mourning because her braves were downed on the diamond on Sunday by the Shanghai Allies, by the score of 7 to 6.

The old team didn't look like itself, playing a losing game. It barely succeeded in holding its first line of trenches during that time with the allies leading 2 to 0. The mighty Rosenberger went down and out in the second inning, Hunter taking his place. "Rosey" didn't have his usual control. Even then, things did not brighten up.

In the sixth, Eysinger's braves decided to do a little offensive work and came home at the end of the inning with two prisoners, recovering all lost trenches and tying the score 2 to 2.

This angered the allied army, which immediately began the big push. Oh! the slaughter! Every soldier on the allied squad handled the war club. The enemy were literally walked over. After two bases on balls were surrendered to the advancing army, coupled with three costly errors and two hits, the allies chalked up a total capture of five runs.

The Brooklynites showed that they could fight an up-hill game after this, scoring one each in the 7th and 8th and two in the 9th, one short of enough to tie up the game.

That ninth inning opened by Scott batting for McGrath and pounding out a three-bagger. Gabel followed, batting for Hunter and drew a base on balls. Leatherby, the next up, fled out to short.

Then Eysinger stepped up in his confident manner and rapped the ball to center field, scoring Scott and Gabel, but running himself into a trap. Baker threw from center to Hylton, who did not relay it home, but seeing Eysinger hot-footing toward second, threw to Wilhoit and put the captain out.

With two out, Daniels knocked a foul fly, which Sellars gathered in and the battle was over, with Brooklyn showing the most casualties.

Honolulu Out of It

It is to be regretted that the Honolulu baseball team has withdrawn from the three-team league. The immediate cause was the decision at first base last Thursday, when their last man was called out. If he had been called safe, their last run would have counted and would have won the game. This came on top of protests on two previous games, one against the Reds and one against the Blues.

It is always difficult in any dispute to say who is in the wrong, but it seems to many that if Mr. Zane had put in his first protest within 24 hours, as requested, instead of waiting a week, the point at issue could have been settled by the committee and future friction avoided.

The Red Sox-Blue Sox series will be continued on Tuesdays and Thursdays, as heretofore, counting the games in which they have met in the series just closed.

SWIMMING

One of the most interesting events on the program of the Shanghai Rowing Club's Gala will be the naval race, over three lengths of the bath.

The Brooklyn team for this event will be chosen from amongst the following named men:—C. Luck, C. W. Colby, J. M. Reineke, T. B. Terkelson, J. H. Harshaw and J. M. Hanigan.

As only 5 are required one of the above will stand down, but which one is not yet announced.

C. Luck will give an exhibition of fancy diving, assisted by W. Welch, the one-legged marvel, instructor of the Y.M.C.A.

The following are the teams that will take part in the classic water polo event on Friday night between the Jiangdahs and the Club:—
Jiangdahs: P. C. Mansfield; W. J. McIntyre.

Gande and W. J. Brown; H. N. Olsen; T. W. R. Wilson; N. C. Brodie and E. A. Brodie.

Club: E. G. Barnes; D. H. Cooke and J. S. Agassiz; R. W. MacCabe; F. S. Ward; I. D. Macdonald and E. McIntyre.

Why Rumania Is In The War

compare the world today with the world he knew, and would ask: "But where is Sweden? Where is Poland? What does the Great Elector say? What does the King of Spain say?" It would never enter his head to ask—"What does Japan say? What do the United States say? What does Italy say? What Russia?" The future, gentlemen, will take thought for the problems of the future, and if it should come to pass that, after Germany has made the attempt to establish a universal Empire and the attempt has been crushed, Russia in its turn makes the same attempt, a new coalition will take shape against her; and from this same tribune speeches will be made in favor of our entering into the new coalition, since, gentlemen, no-one engages himself for eternity. Each several hour has its own solution; all that is asked is that you should be loyal and sincere when you conclude an alliance. When it comes to making forecasts today for centuries ahead—settling the business of those centuries, M. Stere, by an impassioned speech—allow me to say that I cannot take that quite seriously.

Now, gentlemen, let us pass to the execution of that policy. How is that policy to be carried out? And, first, there is the fact that that policy presupposes—do you know what? The certainty that the Quadruple Entente will be defeated—not such a defeat as Germany requires today in order to obtain a peace on the status quo basis, no, but such a defeat that not only Poland may be amputated from the Russian Empire (Poland in any case will gain greater freedom as the result of this war; whatever be its issue, the wrongs committed against her will be avenged) that not only Bessarabia may be detached from Russian territory and made over to us—time was when we were tempted with the bait of Odessa—

M. N. Jorga.—And Kieff!

M. Take Jonesco.—No, not Kieff. Kieff was a military objective; Odessa was a case of annexation. It was then that I discovered in an article in the Vieja Romanesca that Odessa might at a pinch also count as a Rumanian town, because there are 50,000 Rumanians in it and the remainder of the population are Jews, and, consequently, we might make it a Rumanian town. It was a discovery which somewhat upset my geographical notions, and since I could not contend with the Vieja Romanesca, I was obliged to bow to the new doctrine. But there is more. In order that we might be able to keep Bessarabia, after it had been taken by war from Russia, something else was necessary; it was necessary to create the Ukraine as well. The Ukraine—upon my word, I don't know what the Ukraine is.

M. N. Jorga.—It does not even exist. M. Take Jonesco.—What Poland is I know. Science tells me, history tells me, literature tells me, the great men whom it has produced tell me. If we had Chopin alone we should all know what Poland is. What is Poland? That stubborn heroism, that struggle of a hundred years and more, against the cruellest fate, against partition amongst three Powers, which does not leave one corner of land for independent life—these things tell what Poland is.

The heart of every man who can appreciate the moral idea in humanity will be able to say what Poland is.

But the Ukraine?

And, gentlemen, as we are speaking of sufferings, M. Stere referred to Russian Poland, but is the Poland of Posen in any better condition? What about the laws by which a Polish citizen of the Prussian State has not the right to buy land? What about the laws by which land may be bought by force from the Poles, and the Poles replaced by colonists? What about Bulow's words: "I was obliged to do this because the Poles multiply like rabbits, while my Prussians only multiply like hares?" Ah, gentlemen, does all this count for nothing?

These things are more painful when they emanate from a cultivated people than when their author is a Russian lach, which falls on Russians and Poles alike—since such is still the internal condition of Russia.

It will no doubt improve as time goes on. It is not necessary to be a great philosopher to realise that it is indeed a sign of the times that the Eastern autocracy is allied with the three Western democracies, and that in this war against the other reaction lies the great hope in the triumph of progress, even in the great empire of the Tsar.

The Price of an Anti-Russian Policy

And now, gentlemen, so be it—let us fulfil our new mission as the eternal guardian standing between Russia and the sea, that sea to which Bismarck, whom I will again quote, was convinced that she had the right of access. This is what Bismarck said in his Memoirs:—

"If I were an Austrian Minister, I should not prevent the Russians from getting to Constantinople, but I should not try to come to a good understanding with them until after their offensive movement had been carried out."

You will also see in the Memoirs of Crispien, who had long conversations with Bismarck, that Bismarck said to him: "Let us allow the Russians to get to the Straits, otherwise we shall see them in Galicia, and in the Carpathians." And Crispien said to him: "But do you not fear for the independence of the small states of Eastern Europe?"

Bismarck answered: "No. When once the Russians get to the Straits by one means or another, they are less dangerous to the small states, who will then no longer bar their way, than today when they form an obstacle which prevents Russia from getting to the open sea."

But, gentlemen, with what are we going to pay for this policy? It is not a question of a policy of a few years, but of a permanent policy. Russia will always want to get to the sea, and we must always try to prevent her. What is the price? It is this. The first price is the definite destruction of the Rumanian race across the Carpathians. Already inhuman military dispositions have worked in this direction. M. Carp is wrong to console himself with the thought that the Rumanians died as heroes, for if the Rumanians were systematically sent in a larger proportion than the others to die as heroes, it was in order that the country which they had inhabited might remain deserted, so as to make room for colonists, for a pack of the scum of the earth.

But, gentlemen, we shall not only lose the bodies of the Rumanians across the mountains, we shall also lose their soul. These people will say to themselves: "If, even in these circumstances, which no one could foresee, in this coalition of the most powerful States in the world, bent on the abolition of Austria, if even on this occasion our brothers have risked nothing for us, surely the hour will never come when they will risk or dare anything?"

And the last flame which burns in their hearts for their Rumanian fatherland would be extinguished in tears mixed with curses and contempt.

I could understand, gentlemen, I could understand inaction if the hardness of fate had never brought an opportunity permitting us to cross the Carpathians with our banners unfurled; but, in face of this last unique opportunity—for how could such another ever arise—how can we remain immovable? We should be lost for ever in the eyes of our brothers, and we should deserve our fate. One has not the right to ask anyone to sacrifice themselves for cowards. It is impossible.

Well, gentlemen, let us admit that we have sacrificed the Rumanians across the mountains, in order to mount guard against Russia.

The Magyar Vassalage.

For us, the Rumanians of the Kingdom, what will happen? Do you believe that we shall remain even as we are? If Germany is victorious, two peoples, the Germans and the Hungarians will emerge more powerful from this war, and justly so, not indeed in moral greatness but in material greatness, and there is enough meanness in this world for people always to be found who will applaud the triumph of material greatness.

Do you imagine that Hungary would still tolerate the continuation of an independent State here? No, gentlemen, it is the Zollverein that awaits us for a beginning, to end in the Hapsburg Confederation.

I can understand that, at times of profound discouragement, when Rumanians have asked themselves what could be done to secure our general re-union, there have been found spirits of such infirm temper as to have dreamt of a union in slavery under the Hapsburgs.

Of that I have never dreamt. I have always regarded it as a nightmare. I have never contributed to the Gross Oesterreich. And even if I had contributed, I should have done so only in order to pave the way that led to a Grosser Rumanien.

Our ideal, after eighteen centuries of existence, after centuries of suffering—is it only, then, to pass from Turkish to Hungarian vassalage? God protect us from the domination of the Austrian bureaucracy!

Look at the Bukovina and ask yourselves what would become of us under that domination!

But, gentlemen—and with this I close for today—the policy which is now proposed to us has one defect that throws all the others into the shade.

Gentlemen, you know the story of the doctor who had invented a method of teaching his horses to do without eating; he gave them every day a little less provender—And when he had reached the point at which the daily feed was reduced to nothing at all, the horses died.

Your policy has the defect of being impossible.

COTTON CROP IS DAMAGED

Drop of 1,350,000 Bales in the Expected Production

Washington, August 1.—Heavy damage by rain and storm to the growing cotton crop between June 25 and July 25 has caused a reduction of 1,350,000 bales in the prospective production.

The August cotton report of the Department of Agriculture, announced today, indicates a production of 12,916,000, equivalent to 500 pound bales, compared with 14,266,000 bales forecast from the condition of the crop June 25. The condition during the month dropped 8.5 per cent to 72.3 of a normal.

MOST OF JAPAN'S TOYS NOW BOUGHT BY U. S.

England's Prohibition Of Importing Luxuries Stops Supply To That Country

Mr. Nakayama, of the Imperial Commercial Museum, explained to a press representative yesterday about Japan's export of toys and cakes. He said that since the war began, England had become a good buyer of Japanese toys, but that this had stopped because of the prohibition of imports of luxuries in England. Since then the largest buyer has been the United States. It is remarkable to note that Japan sold toys to America over 1,000,000 yen in value in the first six months of the year, while in the same period last year the figures were only 410,000 yen.

Again, the first half of this year the total export of toys amounted to over 3,340,000 yen, and these mainly consist of toys made by machinery. It is expected that the figures for the present year will exceed 5,000,000 yen, according to the lowest estimate. Mr. Nakayama said that the most remarkable progress is now being achieved in the export of cakes, and its future is very promising. Japan has formerly imported a great deal of foreign made cakes, but exported little. But now orders are being received from China, Canada, Australia, India and Egypt. There is, however, great difficulty in filling all these orders, because of the small number of cake factories.

The export of lead pencils to Russia has made great progress. The figures for the first six months of last year were only 30,000 yen, but increased to 410,000 yen in the same period this year.

Japan has a great future in exporting such goods, as combs and women's head ornaments, and artificial flowers. Mr. Nakayama learned that America consumes about 30,000,000 yen annually of artificial flowers for women's head ornaments, and Japan has the possibility of sharing the supply, because the raw material and labor is cheap here.

BIGGEST TRADE YEAR IN HISTORY OF U. S.

Figures Show More Than Two Billions Balance in Exports' Favor

Washington, July 28.—Foreign trade of the United States closed its greatest year in history June 30 with a balance of $2,186,000,000 in favor of American exporters. The year's exports aggregated $4,334,000,000, the Department of Commerce today announced, and imports were valued at $2,198,000,000. The trade balance was double that of last year and four times that of 1914. Exports exceeded those of last year by $1,500,000,000.

The exact foreign trade figures announced differ slightly from preliminary estimates. They show the year's exports exceed the annual average from 1911 to 1914 by more than $2,000,000,000. Gold imports for the year aggregated $404,000,000, compared with $25,000,000 last year. In June exports amounted to $465,000,000, an increase of about $200,000,000 over last June, but a decrease of about $10,000,000 from May. Imports for the year, $2,198,000,000, exceeded by $524,000,000 the 1915 total and the annual average from 1911 to 1914 by $475,000,000. June imports were valued at $246,000,000, the largest ever shown in a single month, being $17,000,000 more than the figures for May and $88,000,000 more than those of June 1915.

August Rubber Outputs

ELECTRICAL TOOL MEN INVADE CHINA MARKET

Recommend Establishment Of Sale-Trust To Promote Japanese Exports

Japanese electrical tool and machinery manufacturers are conferring with the authorities in the Department of Communications as to the export trade to China, and measures are now being taken by them to promote the business interests of Japan.

Electrical machineries required by China used to be imported from Germany and other countries. Germany was especially doing much business by the system of deferred payment, while the Japanese business custom was that of immediate payment.

To increase the volume of trade in future, it is necessary for Japan to adopt the system of deferred payment, extending over from a half to one year, and the formation of syndicates by those who are rich in capital are most recommended. They should also be prepared to accept debentures in the case of individuals and loans in the case of the Government. Thus efforts should be made to give as much benefit in China in the way of payment as possible.

Secondly, it is to be suggested that some officials in the Department of Communications or retired engineers be employed by the Chinese Government as advisors. The present post of advisorship to China is principally occupied by German and Swiss people, and in order to encourage Japanese export, it is absolutely necessary to replace them with the Japanese. Although, by sale trust, manufacturers take responsibility themselves as to the settlement of general accounts, governmental support in the establishment of telephone service and the sale of electrical machineries, is ardently solicited.

Representations to the above effect have recently been made by them to the Government. The Government which used to be full of red-taps and did not entertain the participation in individual enterprise, has undergone quite a change since the outbreak of the war, and it is now expected that it will spare no pains in supporting the sale-trust of electrical machineries.

KAN-IN TO SEE FIGHTING

Prince Will Be Received by Tsar At Russian Front

Tokio, August 29.—General Price Kan-in, who is to go to Russia as the Emperor's messenger in September, will be received in audience by the Tsar at the head quarters of the Russian army in the front, it is said. Then at invitation of the Tsar of Russia, Prince Kan-in will make a round of the Russian line of battle. The itinerary for Prince Kan-in and his suite in Russia is to be determined after a consultation with the reception committee of the Russian court, after their arrival in Petrograd.

REPORT BREMEN'S CAPTURE

Rumored Undersea Freighter Taken In Steel Net?

New York, August 25.—The German steamer Willehad (3,000 tons) which has been interned in Boston since the beginning of the war, has moved to New London, Conn. The change of harbor is believed to indicate that the other submarine freighter, Bremen, is expected shortly.

A British merchant captain, however, states that the Bremen was caught by the British by a steel net in the North Sea and towed into a British port.

Shanghai South dep. 6.40 a.m. Chang An dep. 5.45 p.m.
Chang An arr. 9.40 a.m. Shanghai South arr. 9.15 p.m.
Chang An is the nearest station to Haining from which place the Bore can best be seen.

Native boats reserved by the Railway Administration will convey passengers from Chang An to Haining and return in time to catch the 5.45 p.m. train at Chang An.

Passengers are warned that the boat trip between Chang An and Haining takes quite 2 hours and the return train will leave Chang
An punctually at 5.45 p.m.

FARES:

Tickets at $6.00 each will include Tram, Train and Boat fares from Shanghai to Haining and return.

REFRESHMENTS:

Breakfast, tea and dinner will be served on the train.

Breakfast	$1.00	} Wines extra.
Tea	$0.50
Dinner	$1.50

Sets of 3 tickets for the above meals can be purchased by excursion ticket holders at $2.50 each.

Arrangements have been made for light refreshments to be obtained at Haining at moderate rates in the enclosure specially reserved for excursion ticket holders.

BOOKING OF TICKETS:

Owing to the very limited number of boats at Chang An and Haining, only 200 excursion tickets will be sold.

Applications for these tickets must be accompanied by cash and should be addressed to the Traffic Manager, Shanghai North Station. Booking will commence at 9 a.m. on Thursday, September 7th.

No seats will be reserved on the train as there will be ample accommodation for all. All applications for tickets should be made either personally or in writing.

Not more than 10 tickets will be sold to any one applicant.

Book at once or else you will be too late.

BY ORDER,

J. D. READ,
TRAFFIC MANAGER.

1st September, 1916.
